INTRALATA AND INTERLATA LONG DISTANCE

New Mexico and Texas are divided up into major long distance calling areas called LATAs (local access and transport areas). Calls within the same LATA are called INTRALATA calls. Calls from one LATA to another LATA are called INTERLATA calls. These calling areas are not the same as area codes and the two should not be confused. The El Paso LATA includes all of El Paso and all of Dell Telephone's exchanges. Additionally if DELCOM Long Distance is designated as a customer's INTERLATA carrier, DELCOM Long Distance will also automatically handle direct dialed calls to Canada and Mexico.

I understand that FCC rules require that I separately authorize preferred long distance companies for either INTERLATA and INTRALATA services. If I sign only once, for either INTERLATA alone or INTRALATA alone, I understand that only the single service will be affected by this letter of authorization. If I sign on both lines, I understand that both services will be affected by this letter of authorization. I also understand that each change, including separate changes for INTERLATA and INTRALATA, may involve a charge from Dell Telephone Cooperative, Inc. for executing the change. DELCOM Long Distance will automatically pay for the change charges to Dell Telephone Cooperative, Inc.

Change my INTRALATA (in-LATA) long distance carrier from my current long distance company to DELCOM Long Distance.

Dear PUC:

I understand that I already have per-call blocking. However, I certify that I have a compelling need for per-line blocking and I request that per-line blocking be installed on my line at no extra charge.

1. I understand I can remove per-line blocking and go back to per-call blocking at no charge by calling the Dell Telephone Cooperative, Inc. Business Office.
